Q4 2025 Fund Commentary

Commentary and opinions are provided by Fidelity Investments Canada ULC.

Market commentary

U.S. equity markets rose over the fourth quarter of 2025 to end the year with double-digit gains. Artificial intelligence (AI) remained a key theme, driven by investment in AI infrastructure and software. However, investor debate intensified around market concentration and valuation sensitivity.

A positive earnings season, particularly among large-capitalization and information technology-oriented stocks, and the U.S. Federal Reserve Board's interest rate cuts supported performance. Fiscal incentives in the One Big Beautiful Bill Act, which reinforce capital investment, infrastructure spending and domestic manufacturing, helped investor confidence.

Macroeconomic data suggested a mixed economic backdrop for the U.S. Strong growth trends co-existed with muted labour market indicators and moderating, yet above target, inflation. At a sector level, health care and communication services led gains, while utilities and real estate sectors performed the weakest.

Performance

The Fund's overweight exposures to Western Digital Corp. and Eli Lilly and Co. contributed to performance. Western Digital reported improved revenue and margins because of demand for hard disk drives amid the expansion of AI. Eli Lilly reported better-than-expected third-quarter 2025 results and raised its earnings forecast. No exposure to Oracle Corp. also contributed to performance. The company's stock was affected by investors questioning the concentration of and spending on AI contracts.

Relative exposures to Micron Technology Inc., ServiceNow Inc. and The Mosaic Co. detracted from the Fund's performance. No exposure to Micron Technology detracted from performance as the company's share price rose because of pricing, AI-led demand and tight supply. Overweight exposure to ServiceNow detracted from performance as the company's share price fell amid slowing growth signals, sentiment around the software industry and fears of AI disruption. Mosaic's shares fell because of company-specific disappointments, deteriorating phosphate fundamentals and weaker farmer economics.

At a sector level, exposures to the financials, information technology and real estate sectors contributed to the Fund's performance. Exposures to the communication services and materials sectors detracted from performance.

Portfolio activity

There were no transactions in the Fund during the quarter.

Outlook

The sub-advisor expects high-quality companies with idiosyncratic drivers should perform best, and as such, that's where the Fund's emphasis is. The sub-advisor will rely on fundamental research expertise in uncovering investment opportunities throughout the U.S. stock market, spanning both sectors and the market-capitalization spectrum.
