Q1 2026 Fund Commentary

Commentary and opinions are provided by ClearBridge Investments.

Market commentary

Commodity volatility was the primary driver of Canadian small-capitalization equity performance during the first quarter. January and February were strong, with gold, silver and copper prices rising. The conflict in the Middle East in late February pushed energy prices sharply higher. By March, interest-rate expectations shifted and gold prices pulled back. The energy sector gained roughly 34.8% during the quarter, while the materials sector experienced notable volatility. Defensive areas held up, while cyclical and long-duration segments were pressured by rising rates and geopolitical uncertainty.

The Bank of Canada (BoC) met twice during the quarter and left rates unchanged at 2.25%. At the March meeting, the BoC highlighted it would be monitoring the geopolitical situation closely and stands ready to respond as required. Inflation had been moderating through February, although March inflation details may reflect the impacts of higher oil prices and associated price pressures.

Performance

An underweight allocation and selection within the health care sector, an underweight allocation to the materials sector and an overweight allocation to the utilities sector contributed to performance during the quarter.

Overweight exposures to PHX Energy Services Corp., Headwater Exploration Inc. and Enerflex Ltd. contributed to performance.

An overweight allocation and selection within the information technology sector, selection within the industrials sector and selection within the materials sector detracted from performance during the quarter.

Capstone Copper Corp., an off-benchmark allocation, detracted from performance. An overweight exposure to Propel Holdings Inc. detracted from performance. Boyd Group Services Inc., an off-benchmark allocation, also detracted from performance during the quarter.

Portfolio activity

The sub-advisor added North West Co. Inc. because of its distribution network serving remote communities with government-backed spending. Skeena Resources Ltd. was added because the mining project is permitted, financed and offers de-risking potential. Paramount Resources Ltd. was added because the company is a proven operator with a new Montney natural gas development.

The sub-advisor increased Colliers International Group Inc. because the sub-advisor views the company as a high-quality compounder. The sub-advisor sold Empire Company Ltd. and Sylogist Ltd. because of execution and leadership concerns. The sub-advisor reduced Parex Resources Inc., Headwater Exploration Inc., PHX Energy Services Corp. and Enerflex Ltd. after strong performance.

Outlook

The sub-advisor's bottom-up, long-term investment approach remains unchanged. The sub-advisor continues to monitor trade negotiations, the durability of artificial intelligence-related themes and the Middle East conflict. Energy positioning remains focused on companies with cost and resource advantages. The sub-advisor remains constructive on copper and precious metals royalties. The domestic backdrop remains supportive for the energy, industrials, utilities and consumer staples sectors.

In the sub-advisor's view, the commodity environment may continue to support Canadian small-cap companies with direct exposure to energy and materials production. The sub-advisor believes that disciplined stock selection and a focus on quality businesses with strong balance sheets remain essential in the current environment of elevated volatility and macroeconomic uncertainty.
